ANCIENT IRISH ROUND TOWER AND CROSS.

The round towers of Ireland have been much discussed, and various unsatisfactory explanations have been offered for their appearance in the island in considerable numbers. They are evidently not bell towers and may have been used as watchtowers or places for the deposit of valuables in case of sudden torays.

Closing Out Sale.

TO THE TRADE: After nearly a quarter of a century of active business relations with you it is with regret that I announce my intention of retiring. But owing to reasons best known to myself it is imperative. Therefore beginning Monday, March 21, 1910 my entire stock of goods, building and fixtures will be placed on the market at a price immaterial of costs, and all familiar with my stock know that it is the largest, cleanest, up-to-date merchandise that was ever offered to the trade at a wholesale price and I would urge all interested to come as early as possible to avail themselves of this magnificent opportunity to lay in supplies for seasons to come in all of our different departments and save a great deal of money.

Owing to the fact that I have no margin on the goods thus offered for sale, my terms are absolutely cash, produce, or short bankable notes. You will find all kinds of seasonable goods: Groceries, provisions, salt, flour, china and glass ware, furniture, paint, hats, caps, overalls, clothing, shoes of every description; ladies hats, suits, jackets, dry goods, hosiery, carpets and rugs and most everything usually carried in a department store.

CALVIN J. WILBY.

P. S. For the benefit of the host of patrons, will state that this place will be continued by live, wide awake, honest, reliable successors, C. J. W.

MODERN CLOTHES

TRAVEL where you will and look until your eyes sting from the strain, and you will find on all sides cleverly dressed men.

Some of them may be young, some a trifle older, and some quite old, but all are garbed in the fashion of the day. North, East, South and West abound with clever dressers.

Our own city is not to be passed by, indeed it would be difficult to find a community in which clothes are given more attention or worn in better taste.

MODERN CLOTHES
Brantner Knicker & Co.

While we don't care to seem egotistic, we cannot but feel that we and our clothes have done a lot toward bringing this about.

In a year's time we have an opportunity of inspecting the samples of the world's greatest makers of clothes, and you may rest assured that we inspect them.

And why? Because we ever want to hold our own, we are jealous of our reputation; we want the best and obtain the best. If you care for truly smart styles that are characteristically young you are certain to admire the many we are now displaying in "Modern Clothes."

block. A two story vault, 9 feet square, will be erected to provide fire protection for the land office records on the second floor, and for the use of the occupants of the first floor. The land office will occupy the south end of the second floor, spaces 24 by 50, and 24 by 24 feet. This will leave on the second floor a space 24 by 24 feet in the rear, and 50 by 80 feet in front. A lodge room, 24 by 80 feet, will occupy one side of the front, and ten offices the other side. An 8-foot hall will separate the lodge room from the offices. A space 50 by 50 feet in the rear of the first floor will be used as an exhibition room by a wholesale carriage house, the original plan to use this part of the building as a garage having been abandoned. There will be two front rooms on the first floor 25 by 80 feet each. One of these will probably be occupied by McCorkle's real estate office, and the other by the Building and Loan Association.
